SANCTUARY THREAT

Rescued dogs could be put down if couple lose their home

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AS many as 25 rescued greyhounds and lurchers will be destroyed unless a Harlow couple who care for them can find the money to save their home from repossession.

Gill and Lee Craddock have run Pat's Legacy Sanctuary from their family home in Sheering Road, Harlow, since 2001.

But now they face losing everything after their mortgage lender served them with an eviction notice last week.

The couple – who fund the sanctuary from their own pockets – had fallen into arrears with their repayments after having to become full-time carers for their terminally ill parents.

Now they must pay £12,000 by the end of this month or else they will find themselves homeless and left with no other option but to have the dogs put down.

"The situation has become desperate," said Mrs

Craddock. "Most of these dogs have been abused mentally and physically by their owners, which makes rehoming them very difficult as there is always the risk they may bite or fight out of fear.

"Unless we can find the money to pay off the mortgage arrears, we will have no choice but to put these beautiful dogs to sleep. It's as simple as that."

The couple's financial troubles began three years ago when they stopped working as graphic designers to care for Mrs Craddock's father, who had been diagnosed with lung cancer.

Shortly after his death in October 2007, his mother was diagnosed with heart failure and moved into the couple's home so they could care for her. She died shortly before Christmas.

With a very low income and the running costs of the greyhound sanctuary to meet, their debts began to pile up.

"I just wish the mortgage firm would give us a bit more time to come up with the cash," added Mrs Craddock.

"We are getting some generous donations coming in from greyhound charities and their supporters, but we need much more to ensure these dogs survive."

Plucky OAP's hit and run burglar

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoonl@hertssexnews.co.uk

A MAN of 94 thwarted a burglar by punching him in the face.

The OAP was confronted by the intruder as he investigated a noise in his council home at about 10.30pm on Thursday.

But instead of handing over cash, he lashed out and struck the would-be thief, who then ransacked the property.

The crook fled empty-handed but smashed a picture of the man's late wife during the raid.

Detective Constable Jay McCreath said: "This burglar should be ashamed of himself as not only was he foiled by a man nearly three times his age but also that he should stoop to such despicable levels by smashing a photograph of sentimental value."

An Essex Police spokesman added: "We would like to commend the pensioner for his bravery. He was uninjured but left shaken."

The OAP was too upset to talk about the incident this week and has asked for his address in the Netteswell area not to be disclosed.

Netteswell councillor Edna Stevens suggested people could be turning to crime because of the economic downturn and said she would be pushing for increased police patrols.

Stressing that Harlow is a safe place to live, she added: "We have regular meetings with the police and we have more police working in Harlow than any previous time. However, I would urge people to lock their doors when they are inside and to use a door chain."

The burglar was described as aged in his late 20s to early 30s, white with long brown hair and about 1.67m (5ft 6in) tall.

Anyone with information should call 0300 333 4444.

Touching up a beauty spot

WORK has started to spruce up a Harlow beauty spot after it won funding in a Star-backed competition.

Volunteers have been coppicing oaks at Parndon Wood Nature Reserve for the raw material to make benches and pathways.

The reserve won the public vote in the Hotspots contest run by Harlow Renaissance. Planned works include pond-dredging and more coppicing.

Reformed 'hooligan' spared jail for theft

A MAN has been spared jail by a judge who said he had been working on going "from hooligan to family man."

Nathan Bibby (25), of The Dashes, Harlow, was given a suspended sentence for stealing a motorbike and crashing it in 2007.

But he breached the order when he admitted stealing scrap metal from Fleet Mobile Tyres, in Sawbridgeworth, in May last year.

Sentencing him at Chelmsford Crown Court on Tuesday, Judge Anthony Goldstaub told him: "When you were sentenced last time you would have been told if you commit any further offences you might have to serve a custodial sentence. You have come perilously close."

Bibby was given a four-month jail sentence, suspended for 12 months and to run concurrent with the earlier sentence. He was also given a 12-month supervision order, also to run concurrent with the earlier supervision order which was extended from 18 months to two years.

James Howard, in mitigation, told the court Bibby was making progress in his supervision and was now in a stable relationship and the father of a three-month-old child.

He added he had also started a legitimate business of collecting scrap metal with permission.

New trial for Liddard

A BANKER accused of killing a pleasure boat captain in a drunken brawl will be tried again.

Andrew Liddard (28), is accused of punching Michael Reed (67), who later died of a heart attack. In a trial last month, jurors could not reach verdicts on charges of manslaughter and causing actual bodily harm.

Liddard's brother Christopher

(23), of Challinor, Harlow, was cleared of manslaughter, affray and assault occasioning actual bodily harm. He admitted common assault and will be sentenced on January 30.

Andrew Liddard, from Hoddeson, will stand trial again from July 13. He denies manslaughter and assault occasioning actual bodily harm.

I'll be a Tory 'wet' to support charity hopeful Robert Halfon is hoping to make a splash for charity as well as in politics this year.

PARLIAMENTARY

The Conservative politician has agreed to do a second sponsored swim in aid of the Harlow branch of the Alzheimer's Society.

Mr Halfon took the plunge back in 2007 when he completed his first swim and raised more than £3,000 to support the work of the charity.

He hopes to achieve similar success when he swims again at the Park Inn Hotel, in Southern Way, next Saturday (January 24). "I am delighted to do my second sponsored swim for the branch through which I aim to raise much-needed funds that will in turn help them to continue to support local Harlow people who have dementia and of course their carers," he told the Star.

"My personal aim is also to shed a few of the pounds that I gained over the festive season when I enjoyed my helping of Christmas pudding!

"Notwithstanding the credit crunch, I hope people will dig deep into their pockets to support this very worthy cause.

Without the work that the Alzheimer's Society does in Harlow the lives of many local people would suffer and I want to do all that I can to support and to thank them for their valued efforts."

Gordon Younger, chairman of the Harlow branch, said: "I cannot thank Robert enough for the generosity of his support through the undertaking of a sponsored swim again this year. "As with all charities we face a continuous challenge to balance the books and the funds that Robert raises will help us to achieve that in 2009."

Branch manager Marion Howell added: "Currently we support over 320 people with dementia and 325 carers who live in Harlow. Through our outreach and the Rest a While services in particular, we do all that we can to help them and their carers to maintain their quality of life.

"The support we offer is unique within the town and enables people to remain in their homes for as long as is practical."

Anyone wanting to do sponsor Mr Halfon should email alzheimersharlow@btconnect.com or phone (01279) 418331 to request a sponsor form. Alternatively, sponsorship pledges can be made at www.justgiving.com/roberthalfon.

Hospice steps up appeal for walkers

HASTINGWOOD'S St Clare Hospice is concerned the Christmas holiday and peak demands on the postal service may be to blame for a slow response to one of its winter fundraisers.

The 5k Winter Walk takes place next Sunday (January 25) but so far the number of people registering has been lower than expected.

Events fundraiser Tracy Meale said last year over 200 people registered and raised £4,100 but so far only 100 registrations have been received.

"We have concerns that forms have been forgotten about over the Christmas holiday or completed forms that have been posted back may still be in the postal system," she said.

In an appeal to people who have not yet signed up, she added: "Whether it's your new year resolution to get fit or you want to exercise the dog after all those Christmas treats, come and join us! As well as having a great time all those taking part will be contributing to the care we provide.

"We have over £1.7m to raise each year and it's events like this that make our service possible."

She said the Christmas holiday has been extremely busy and said 2009 looked set to be busier still.

The Winter Walk begins at the hospice in Hastingwood Road at 10.30am. To sign up, log onto www.stclare-hospice.co.uk or call (01279) 773 750.

Deadline looms for youth cash grants

YOUTH groups across Essex have just a day left to apply for the remaining share of a £2m cash bonanza.

In its first round of grants, the Community Initiatives Fund Youth donated £985,985 to worthy causes across the county and a similar amount is still available for the second round.

The second deadline for applications is tomorrow (January 16), with decisions being made in March.

John Jowers, Essex County Council's portfolio holder for localism, said: "There is still plenty of money left in the pot to fund some brilliant schemes so I would urge groups to put in their applications so we can make even more of these vital community dreams a reality for our young people who are the future of our county."

The council is particularly keen to receive applications from the Harlow, Uttlesford and Basildon districts,, which had a lower take up last time.

Application forms and guidance notes are available on the website www.communityinitiativesfund.co.uk. For further information contact co-ordinator Beverly Davies on 07929 543523 or send an email to info@communityinitiativesfund.co.uk

Worthy causes to get the Lions share

GENEROUS residents donated £1,350 to the Harlow Lions Club in collections held outside supermarkets throughout the town.

Members of the group, which raises money within the Harlow and Epping area for the good of the community, collected outside Tesco stores in Church Langley and Edinburgh Way and Sainsbury's in Fifth Avenue, two weekends before Christmas.

A spokesman for Harlow Lions said: "I would like to thank Harlow residents for their generosity. As always, all of the money collected will be used to help those in need."

Shelter's thanks to its volunteer army

KIND-hearted volunteers who helped provide a shelter for the homeless during the Christmas and New Year period have been thanked for their selfless work.

Unpaid helpers took the season of goodwill at its literal meaning by giving their free time to help run and donate items to the temporary haven in Harlow's Abercrombie Way for 10 days.

Almost 200 people who were unfortunate enough not to have a roof over their heads enjoyed a turkey dinner on Christmas Day and celebrated New Year with a home-cooked Indian meal made by a volunteer.

Shelter organiser Mick Granger said: "As always, the Harlow community has overwhelmed us with its generosity. There are far too many people to thank personally but we would like to say a big thank you to the many people who donated food, toiletries, clothing, sleeping bags and many other things, either through a school, church organisation or individually."

He singled out Peter Walford of the Great Parndon Community Association for special thanks for granting the use of the play barn and covering the cost of heating and lighting for the 10 days, and the Park Inn Hotel, in Southern Way, which gave Christmas dinner and all the trimmings for all the guests and volunteers on Christmas Day.

Pitney Bowes, Sainsbury's Waltham Point Depot, A1 Bacon and Greenway Eggs were also thanked.

Mr Granger added: "Closing the doors of the haven is always a very sad day as we see our guests go back on the streets. In this day and age no-one should be homeless, but unfortunately the situation only seems to get worse."

Growing new trees from Christmas cards

OLD festive greetings cards could be turned into trees thanks to a recycling initiative.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell launched the Woodland Trust's Christmas Card Recycling Scheme at Tesco, in Edinburgh Way, on Friday.

Cards collected will be recycled and turned into credits which enable the Woodland Trust to buy and plant thousands of trees throughout the UK.

Mr Rammell said: "Protecting our green space and woodland in this area is vital and what better way to ensure new trees are planted in this area than by recycling our old Christmas cards which, when the festive season comes to a close, we don't really have much use for?"

"I would encourage everyone who can get to either Edinburgh Way or Church Langley Tesco in January to drop off their old cards to contribute to the Woodland Trust's campaign for new trees."

Recycling bins will be in both Harlow branches of Tesco until January 31.

Housing help job cuts 'ridiculous'

FURIOUS staff in Harlow Council's housing department have been left reeling by the announcement that at least two homelessness and housing options officers will be made redundant in a service shake-up.

Head of housing Andrew Murray – one of eight senior officers to be rewarded with a substantial pay hike this year – has written to his staff outlining plans for a service review in which posts will be axed and officers made to re-apply for their jobs.

The letter claims the restructuring exercise reflects "the changed requirements for the wider housing portfolio" and will allow the service "to build upon its strengths" and "work more effectively as a team."

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

But one worker, who wished to remain anonymous, said: "How can making two officers redundant improve the service we provide?"

"More and more people are going to need the department's help during this recession, but the council has decided to make cutbacks – it's absolutely ridiculous."

The news comes in the wake of the authority's decision to withdraw funding from the Welfare Rights and Advice Service, and just two months after the Star revealed the number of home repossessions in Harlow was on the rise.

Selma Granger, former head of the now-defunct Harlow Accommodation Project charity, expressed her dismay at the cutbacks.

"They are overstretched as it is, so I'm really concerned about these redundancies," she said.

"The reality is that more families are going to be made homeless as the country goes into recession. The council should be expanding the service to cater for increased demand, not cutting it back just to save money."

A council spokesman said the authority would endeavour to redeploy any staff made redundant and that consultation with employees and trade unions was ongoing.

"So far, housing repossessions do not appear to have hit the town as hard as in other areas," he added. "However, we are monitoring the situation carefully and we aim to tackle developments as they arise. Being ready for future challenges is part of the reason for reorganising teams."

Thieves net a huge haul from home raid

THIEVES made off with a haul of expensive goods after smashing a window and ransacking a home in Harlow.

Five computer consoles as well as accessories and games were stolen from the property in Latton Street, along with a generator, Slush Puppy drinks machine, two candy floss makers and a popcorn machine, Canon camera, Sony camcorder and 50in flat screen TV with lighting surround, satellite dish aerial, Sky box, three off-road motorcycles and clothing, three remote control bikes, three flatscreen TVs with built-in DVD players and various jewellery.

The burglary happened overnight on January 9 – one of several which have taken place throughout the town in recent weeks.

Officers are now warning residents to beef-up their security to properties and ensure their homes are secure at all times.

Anyone with information should call PC Victoria Joy at Harlow police station on 0300 333 4444.

Lib Dem plea for museum

LIBERAL Democrat prospective Parliamentary candidate Dean White has called for guarantees about the future of The Museum Of Harlow.

He has written to Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson, urging him to promise the Muskham Road facility will not be shut.

Last week, Mr Johnson admitted the council is considering moving the museum to the Civic Centre to cut bills.

Mr White said: "Local people are scared by the ongoing rounds of cuts from the Conservative council. As the main opposition in Harlow, it is the Liberal Democrats' responsibility to hold them to account on this issue."

Tory urges a boycott of 'sweatshop' store

By CHRIS MOSS
mossc@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN undercover BBC investigation linking High Street clothing chain Primark to UK sweatshops has prompted a call from a leading Harlow Tory for shoppers to boycott the store.

Conservative prospective Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon was so outraged by the report he has written to the manager of the Harlow branch of the budget fashion chain, in the Harvey Centre, to express his concern.

The report was screened on News At 10 on Monday and included secret footage of an undercover reporter being offered half the minimum wage to work alongside illegal immigrants at one of the firm's main suppliers.

Speaking on Tuesday, Mr Halfon said:

BOYCOTT: Robert Halfon makes his point about alleged sweatshop labour outside Primark's branch in Harlow (photo: VDG79WKY/03)

"Like anyone who watched BBC news last night, I am outraged, shocked and disgusted by what I watched – I feel sick that I have ever been in Harlow Primark.

"This company is behaving with the worst possible standards and seemingly does not value human life. It seems not to care who its suppliers are so long as it can out-price its competitors."

In his letter to the store manager, Mr Halfon questions the firm's inspection procedures and asks why it has apparently turned a blind eye to the alleged illegal working practices used by suppliers.

Although the store told the BBC it was "extremely concerned about the very serious allegations" made in the broadcast and promised it would conduct its own investigation, Mr Halfon said an apology was inadequate.

"I urge all local people to boycott this shop until it shows proper standards," he added. "Primark's apology to the BBC is not enough

Nobody from the chain was unavailable for comment as the Star went to press yesterday (Wednesday).

Town escapes downturn in UK recycling

RESIDENTS in Harlow are being urged to recycle as normal after council chiefs said the authority is not suffering effects of the recycling industry plunging into crisis.

Rubbish which has been sorted by homeowners throughout the country is being stored in huge warehouses because private companies contracted by local authorities cannot sell the materials. Waste paper has particularly been hit by plummeting demand and most paper mills in the country are not accepting new stock.

The situation has caused problems for some councils, which have had to pay contracted firms to store the stockpiled recycled materials – leading to fears tax-payers will end up footing the bill.

But Harlow Council this week reported business as normal, with a spokesman stating: "Recycling in the town is not currently affected by the global economic situation. Residents should continue to recycle using services available and reduce their waste wherever possible.

"Recyclable items, which are collected through the council's kerbside scheme and from neighbourhood recycling sites, continue to be taken to material processing centres and sent for recycling."

PAH's boost for cancer patients

PRINCESS Alexandra Hospital has altered its patient monitoring programme in a bid to improve efficiency and quality of care for cancer sufferers.

All cancer patients will now have their progress tracked from the first time they visit the hospital for treatment to ensure they are treated within the national target of two months.

Previously, only patients referred urgently by GPs or undergoing the first round of treatment were monitored.

Zavvi branch survives first round of closures

THE Harlow branch of struggling music and entertainment chain Zavvi has escaped immediate closure after administrators spared the store in their first round of cutbacks.

Ernst & Young has announced the immediate closure of 40 of the firm's branches, but the Broad Walk store is one of 74 others which will continue to trade while a rescue package is sought for the beleaguered brand.

The troubled chain has been badly affected by the collapse of Woolworths and its wholesale distribution arm Entertainment UK, which had supplied Zavvi with the majority of its stock until it went into administration in late November.

Zavvi was forced to cease all online trading as a result and has since had considerable difficulty in sourcing new stock.

Joint administrator Tom Jack said: "Despite record consumer demand since Christmas, it is no longer possible to support continued trading across all of the Zavvi stores.

"However, we intend to continue to trade the remaining Zavvi portfolio with a view to selling all or part of the Zavvi business as a going concern. So far, we have received 60 expressions of interest which we continue to actively pursue."

● LAND of Leather, which has a branch in Harlow's Queens Gate Centre has called in the administrators, putting 1,000 jobs at risk in the UK.

The furniture firm has 109 stores and announced the move on Monday after its sales reportedly fell by 47 per cent over the three months to November 2 last year.

Cashpoint gang is sent to prison

A GANG has been sentenced to a total of 17 years behind bars for a spate of cash machine raids in Harlow and other parts of the country.

Stewart Bentley, Paul Mockford, George Welford and Martin Godwin admitted charges relating to the theft or attempted theft of 25 cash machines.

Bentley (36) was sentenced to three years, Mockford (36) was given five years, Welford (40) was sentenced to five years and Godwin (35) was sentenced to a total of four years at Ipswich Crown Court on Thursday. All are from the London area.

The court heard the gang stuck between May 2007 and July 2008, stealing or attempting to steal 17 cash machines, including one in Harlow, and taking 10 vehicles from various locations.

The thefts and damage caused to property totalled more than £500,000.

Police finally caught up with the gang when Bentley was arrested after being found under a lorry in April 2009 trying to detach chains which had been used in the attempt to steal the contents of a cash machine.

Families' cold snap distress

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

SIX families have been forced to endure the brutal cold snap without heating or hot water because of faulty heating in their council-owned flats.

Tenants in Barn Mead first reported problems with their shared central heating system on New Year's Day – but they are still waiting for Harlow Council's maintenance contractor Kier Harlow to mend it.

Meanwhile, temperatures in the town have plummeted to as low as -6°C at night.

The angry tenants have laid the blame for their plight squarely on council officers they have criticised as "arrogant".

Among those affected is mother-of-two Donna Tyler, who has been forced to huddle up with her 11-week-old baby girl and 11-year-old daughter every night to make sure they stay warm.

"This has been an absolute nightmare," she said. "How are you supposed to properly care for a baby when you're forced to live without heat during the coldest weeks of the year?"

"We've all had to move into the living room and huddle up around an electric heater every night just to stay warm."

"It's not just us I'm worried about – there are elderly residents living in our block as well. I've tried and tried to get the council to sort this out, but they just don't seem bothered. Their arrogance is disgraceful."

Kier Harlow business development manager Graham Williamson said arrangements have now been made for engineers to visit the affected flats within the next week to attempt to resolve the problems.

"When it was first reported that there was a problem with the communal boiler at Barn Mead, Kier Harlow Ltd staff attended and got the boiler working again," he said.

"Our operatives visited the site a number of times and believed the issue had been resolved."

"However, it has since been identified that the problem has moved to the heating circuits within the flats, which has led to a sporadic supply of heating and hot water."

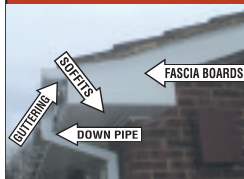

Heating bill help for town

RESIDENTS in Harlow are among thousands set to benefit from additional cold weather payments. The Government announced this week the town was one of 48 areas to receive the money because temperatures have dropped particularly low this winter.

The move is part of a package of measures to help vulnerable people and pensioners through the cold snap.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell MP has welcomed the news, stating: "When the temperature goes down no-one should be afraid to turn up the thermostat."

Ex-councillor is in the clear

A WATCHDOG has cleared a former councillor of bringing Harlow Council into disrepute, despite them deeming his comments "ill-judged", "unacceptable" and "inappropriate" and agreeing he broke the rules.

The Standards Board for England launched an investigation after former Independent John Paul Goddard called for the resignation of community services head Lynn Seward last year.

Mr Goddard was reacting to a series of controversies which surrounded the department, including the suspension of The Playhouse's then-manager Phil Dale, for which no official reason was given.

Mr Dale was re-instated after a six-week investigation but resigned a few weeks later.

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassoon@hertsexnews.co.uk

The council's monitoring officer referred Mr Goddard to the board after it was alleged his comments broke the Code of Conduct and brought the authority into disrepute.

But after nearly a year of scrutiny, the Standard Board's ethical standards officer has decided no action needs to be taken.

A summary of his findings, noted by the council's standards committee last night (Wednesday), states: "By speaking to the Press in this way, councillor Goddard had failed to treat the officer with respect and had breached the Code of Conduct."

"However, the ethical standards officer did not consider that councillor Goddard's behaviour was of a nature which brought his office or the authority into disrepute."

The board concluded that because Mr Goddard is no longer a councillor, no further action needs to be taken.

However, in a stark warning to current elected members, the board added the council's standards committee could have suspended him for three months if he was still a councillor.

Mr Goddard, who has since moved from Harlow to study law, said he accepts he may not have raised his concerns in the best forum and did not intend to cause offence but was seriously concerned about the theatre's future at the time.

A council spokesman said: "Council officers sometimes have to propose difficult solutions and take unpopular decisions in the best interests of the community."

"They must be able to do so without being subjected to unpleasant personal attacks."

Boys' captain Reece Hannibal and girls' captain Ellie Burrell-Bicker will lead a team of 9- to 11-year-olds at the regional finals, which will be held in Brentwood in March. Deputy headteacher Gaynor Nelson said: "The children worked very hard and pushed themselves. We are really proud of them."

Website keeping parents in the loop

HARLOWBURY Forgetting to bring home newsletters to mum will become a thing of the past thanks to a new website launched to keep parents and pupils updated about school events.

The site was launched by the primary school last month to make it easier for mums and dads to keep their fingers on the pulse. The internal site also features photographs of pupils hard at work.

A spokeswoman said: "We are really excited about the launch of our school website. We hope that parents can keep up to date with school news and events, and it will be an opportunity for all our parents to see photos of their children learning and having fun."

A little environmental give and take

PARINGDON Recycling was put into action when the primary school played host to a Give And Take day as part of a Harlow Council initiative.

Pupils, teachers and visitors brought their wardrobe cast-offs and other items to the Paringdon Road school to exchange among themselves.

The event was intended to help reduce landfill and encourage the community to recycle.

That's life on planet Harlow

By LOUISE SASSOON

VISITING journalists can sometimes find it difficult to write positive things about some of the foreign towns and cities they are assigned to cover.

But for one Norwegian reporter who was sent to Harlow in 1961 during Norway Week, the New Town proved to be welcome change from the pine forests and snow-capped mountains of his homeland.

The reporter – whose name has sadly been mislaid for posterity – wrote eight articles during the week celebrating the friendship links between Harlow and Stavanger for our twin town's daily paper Stavanger Aftenblad.

Some may say the articles only highlight how times in the town have changed, but for the reporter at the time Harlow was truly a paradigm of modern living.

Translated copies of the stories were sent to Harlow Urban District Council after they were printed for the perusal of the chairman and members.

A photocopy of the document, sent to Nostalgia, gives an insight into the writer's reaction to our town.

In an article entitled 'Green Lawns To Walk On', he makes mention of the town's layout, noting it is not like those in his home country but instead comprises smaller communities.

He goes on to enthuse about its extensive cycle track and the many open spaces which Sir Fredrick Gibberd incorporated into his masterplan.

"(Harlow) is a place for people who do not want to live in the large towns but who want to live and breathe fresh air," he wrote.

"Here people walk on the grass. There are so many lawns, wide-open fields, not fields but well-tended green belts, in hundreds of

Did you join in the fun?

Margaret Torkildsen, wife of the late Sportcentre manager George. The picture is understood to have been taken at a town twinning event in 1963 but the exact details are unknown. If anybody remembers the event, please drop Nostalgia a line at 6 Westgate, Harlow, CM20 1JW.

"It is a delight for the children, for the housewife. It's just like being on another planet."

In another of his articles, the writer makes note of the town's low crime rate and praises the quality of the now-defunct swimming pool on First Avenue.

"In Harlow, nobody locks their car at night. The window is left open and nothing disappears.

"It is a splendid indoor pool, a beautiful building ... bright and light."

In a swipe at his own town's lack of such a facility, he adds: "We wouldn't need to build so luxuriously, but it would be very fine if we could."

grounds of BP House, in Third Avenue, has been deferred by Harlow Council's planning committee.

Fears there could be a Big Brother element about the installation of the cameras were expressed by councillors.

STAN NEWENS EURO MP?

Stan Newens, former MP for Harlow, has been selected from six nominees as prospective Labour candidate for central London in the European elections

He made it clear at the selection conference that he still wished to return to the Westminster Parliament.

HOAXERS' MEAN 'PRIZE CONTEST'

Hoaxers claiming to be from Harlow's Hospital Radio have been running a false competition and awarding prizes that do not exist. Several disappointed people turned up at the hospital last week to claim their prizes, only to be told there was no competition.

A PLEA, now, to all residents who know a thing or two about the town to share your stories with us. Although the files have been bulging for some time, for which I am grateful, things have quietened down of late. I would like to hear from readers with anecdotes about what life in the town used to be like, or with memories about particular buildings, areas or people to get in touch by emailing me, Louise Sassoon, at sassoonl@hertsessexnews.co.uk or calling (01279) 400577.

BIG BROTHER CAMERA FEARS

A decision for five surveillance cameras to be installed in the £22m crisis is a scare story

SIR, It is completely unbelievable that yet again the Harlow Tory party are trying to scare local residents with the threat of cuts, closures and privatisation.

The Tories, under the leadership of Andrew Johnson, have set about yet another series of scare stories indicating that Harlow Council need to repay immediately £22m. This is completely untrue. It is totally unfounded and even they know that the external auditors and the finance director of the council itself have confirmed that the medium-term financial strategy is safe, sound, reasonable and affordable.

So when it comes down to it, who are the public going to believe – Tory propaganda or professional people who are skilled and trained and are publicly accountable?

Let's be honest, the real agenda is to scare us; and let's be honest, over the last few months their record is one to be scared about. They have increased cremation fees, and when you report the sighting of a rat, the first question you are asked is your method of payment. The Tories have embarked on a hugely controversial and unpopular waste contract which will force most residents to have two ugly wheelie bins parked outside their doors. At least six staff have already been made redundant and it is widely reported that it is the Tory desire to destroy one of the key partners that supports so many people, namely the Welfare Rights Service.

What makes this issue even worse is the news that whilst we are losing services and losing staff, we are now told that the senior executive managers of Harlow Council have been given a massive pay rise. Two of these executive members, the chief executive and the finance director, have been actively involved in the budget process, so if the budget is in such a terrible state, why are we rewarding failure? It also needs to be noted that one of these executives who will be receiving a massive pay rise is the officer who will be recommending the waste contract regarding the introduction of our ugly wheelie bins.

I predict the real reason for these scare stories is that the Tories want to blame everybody for everything, whilst not taking responsibility for anything.

So can we believe the Tory truth, or shall we look at the facts and the history of this council? Because I believe the vast majority of people in Harlow have seen worse services under the Tory administration and have seen more political hype and scare stories than ever before in the history of this town.

There is a very plain and simple truth and that is that the Tory stories are untrue and unreal, and are more about scaring people than working collectively in common endeavour to protect and support our community.

High-paid managers need to improve

SIR, When will the Star headlines improve for Harlow Council?

I suggest only when management improves, because we had the fiasco of the swimming pool closure yet the 2009/10 BT telephone book still lists it!

Throughout the town, there are out-of-date signs, including those to defunct neighbourhood offices which are still listed in the present telephone book, years after closing. Yet Contact Harlow remains unlisted.

During the past decade, Harlow Council built a new bus station, yet it is cold and draughty with doors that don't function. It is obvious the council top-earners never use it, otherwise it would not remain like this.

All councillors rely on chief officers to carry out duties professionally, yet these chief officers seem to fail to get to grips with so many problems. Meanwhile, the present administration prefer to reward the Civic Centre's top eight earners with £47,500 between them, while decreasing the Advice Centre budget just when the waiting can be months for personal advice on how to cope with individual financial problems.

Harlow desperately needs better value for money and fairness from our politicians – only then will the headlines

FLASHBACK: How the Star broke the story of the huge pay rises last week (s) improve.

A. Buckman
Harlow (full address supplied - Editor)

SIR, At a time when most people are feeling the effects of the credit crunch, making things difficult to make their books balance, what has Harlow Council done? Given its directors a £10,000 a year rise for doing what?

Most of the people working for this community now work for Kier, which the council out-sourced two years ago. The council is understood to still be in debt, so how can £47,000 be a way of saving money?

In 2009, the money spent around this town will be short, so less will get done and you can bet that the community charge will rise again this year – not that it will matter to these directors, even if they do live in Harlow

Mr B. Hood
Brockles Mead, Harlow

Financial loss is no surprise

SIR, Re: "£22m shock" (Star, December 31), it's not a shock to hear again about the council's money losses.

I forget how many times we have read over the last year or so how many millions the council has lost or simply squandered.

Lest we forget, we would have lost everything the council had invested had they not been very lucky and withdrew our money from an offshore account in time. What happens with the interest we never hear about from our invested money?

Isn't enough enough? The council civil servants have feathered their own nests for long enough now. Instead of cutting even more services, cut the jobs from the very people who have cost us the money losses; why should we all suffer and bail the council out yet again? It's not our fault.

What else will they do to try and get this money from us? Maybe it's time we the people of Harlow demanded, under the Freedom of Information Act, that every single penny they have mislaid/squandered over the years be publicly scrutinised and accounted for. If it cannot, then surely the police fraud department should be involved? It is now time we approached Parliament/10 Downing Street and demanded that Harlow Council, along with all councils, be answerable to someone, a group of bodies that cannot be influenced in any way by the council, someone like the political comedians Mark Thomas or Will Self.

It seems the council's ubiquitous spin on everything is acceptable; is it acceptable to have people govern our town who may simply have other interests at heart? I think not.

MP too quiet about Gaza

SIR, Bill Rammell does not seem to have much to say about the bloody carnage in the Gaza Strip. This lack of comment could be considered to be more than a little remiss, taking into account that he is, in fact, the minister of state for the Middle East.

Israeli forces fired on a United Nations aid convoy, killing two UN workers, and also bombarded three UN schools, killing dozens of unarmed civilians. Mr Rammell may believe that his job description does not require him to speak out against such war crimes. However, as a member of a government of a state that is a signatory to the Geneva Conventions and other international treaties, Mr Rammell certainly has a moral obligation, if not a legal duty, to condemn violations of international law.

Rather than facilitating a just settlement of the Israel/Palestine national question, Mr Rammell's Government is guilty of a one-sided approach that has fuelled the present outbreak of hostilities. The Government of which Mr Rammell is a loyal member continues to supply some of the sophisticated modern weapons with which the Israeli Goliath slaughters defenceless children, whilst demanding that the Palestinian David be deprived of its puny arsenal of rockets.

Hamas won the democratic elections to the Palestinian Legislative Council in 2006. The response of Mr Rammell's Government and its European Union partners was to refuse to recognise the new Palestinian government and to impose sanctions against it. It is a crazy logic indeed that punishes the oppressed and arms their oppressors.

Some of the Israeli towns on which Hamas rockets are falling were once Palestinian Arab towns, the inhabitants of which were expelled by Zionist/Israeli forces in 1948. These refugees and their descendants now live in the Gaza Strip. The majority of the inhabitants of the latter territory are in fact classed as refugees.

There can be no just solution that does not address the right to return of Palestinian Arab refugees. If Mr Rammell was truly an unalloyed supporter of universal human rights, he would use his position to push for such an outcome.

Bus lanes are so confusing

SIR, It is commendable that the company carrying out the extensive road works on First Avenue has done so with amazing organisation, commitment and speed.

Now some of the work is complete, I am very disturbed by the rules of the road concerning two particular parts. As I drive from The Stow roundabout and want to turn left into Halling Hill, what do I do if there is a flow of traffic in the bus lane? The bus lane ends, allowing drivers to move over to the left, but who has right of way? Is it a bus/taxi coming on the inside? Or do they stop, allowing me to move over? If I have to stay in the centre lane, I am stopping the flow of traffic going ahead.

This same design is repeated as drivers want to turn off into The Hides/Dashes. There are no 'give way' signs, just merely two arrows pointing out 'slow'. If there are no instructions and the choices are left to the discretion of the driver, there are undoubtedly going to be accidents as drivers move over to the left to turn off the main road. This is very confusing; it is also very dangerous. Does anybody have the answer, or am I just being thick?

Old furniture so much help

SIR, May I, on behalf of Rainbow Services Harlow, thank all the people who have generously donated their good quality furniture to the ReUse Project during the past year.

The project passes these items on to people who live in the district of Harlow for a small delivery charge.

Because of these donations, we have been able to help many local people in difficult situations, from those leaving the Women's Refuge and temporary accommodation to young people leaving Occasio House and being given their first home.

Often people who use the service have nothing and occasionally we can help them with the basics for setting up a home.

So, once again, I would like to thank everyone for their generosity and hope that people will continue to think of the project in the new year by ringing (01279) 308151.

Eurovision hopeful survives first round

HARLOW'S Eurovision hopeful Charlotte Finlay-Tribe was almost voted out of the competition to sing this year's UK entry in the first week.

The 17-year-old, of Challinor, was in the bottom two acts of the BBC1 TV show Eurovision: Your Country Needs You after singing Kelly Clarkson's catchy hit Because Of You live on Saturday.

However, she was saved by Lord Andrew Lloyd Webber, leaving fellow contestant Damien to be axed.

Charlotte, who has featured in adverts and was part of the West End cast of Chitty

Bang Bang, will sing against the remaining four competitors at this Saturday's show, which will be attended by her family and friends.

Speaking about the first week, her father Martyn (36) said: "I thought she was brilliant and didn't think she should be in the bottom two."

"We are thankful for Andrew for saving her."

Lord Webber said Charlotte had pulled off a great performance. She also won praise from singer Lulu, who said she hit all the right notes.

The winner of the competition will sing the UK's Eurovision entry, which will be written by Lord Lloyd Webber, at the Eurovision finals in Moscow in May.

● The Star is backing Charlotte to go all the way in the competition and needs your support to help her. The live shows are being aired on BBC1 at 6.45pm Saturday and give you the chance to vote for the person you want to win the contest.

Calls cost 15p from a BT landline, so pick up your phones and get voting for Charlotte – and remember to ask permission first from the person who pays the bills if it is not you.

The runaway sweethearts

AND they call it puppy love ... two determined young sweethearts have been safely returned to their families after they tried to run away and get married – in Africa!

German tots Mika (6) and Anna-Bell (5) packed their swimming costumes, sunglasses and a lilo and headed for the airport on New Year's Day.

They even thought to invite Anna-Bell's seven-year-old sister Anna-Lenar to join them on their adventure and be an official witness at their wedding.

But their plans were foiled when a guard called police after spotting them waiting for a train at Hanover railway station laden with bags.

Police spokesman Holger Jureczk told reporters the young couple were very much in love and had decided to get married in Africa because it is warm there.

Anna-Bell and Mika dreamed up the idea as their families celebrated the arrival of the New Year together. Mika told the two sisters all about a recent holiday to Italy.

The next morning they crept out of the house while their parents slept, walked half a mile to the local tram station and hopped on a tram to the railway station, from where the police eventually collected them. But even though the young couple's wedding plans have now been put on hold, they did get to have a tour of the police station while they waited for their relieved parents to pick them up!

Your NHS working for you

West Essex

Getting treatment at the best place for you

HOSPITAL A&E departments are always busy places. To help speed things up, when you walk into the A&E department at Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow you will be met at the front door by an experienced GP or nurse who will assess you and direct you to the best place for treatment.

If the injury or illness would be best treated at the nearby Walk-in Centre you will be directed there. A team of health professionals, including a full-time GP, will be ready to look after you.

If you need the skills and resources of an acute hospital you will be seen within the A&E department, and your assessment and treatment should be quicker.

You will receive care in the right place, saving you time. People who need to be seen in an emergency will also be treated more quickly.

Alex Green, adult community services manager at NHS West Essex, said: "Harlow Walk-in Centre complements local hospital services and GPs by providing assessment, advice and treatment for a range of minor injuries and illnesses, without the need to make an appointment.

"Assessments are carried out by experienced GPs and nurses who will determine the urgency of your healthcare need and ensure that appropriate treatment or advice is given."

John Curry, who represents cyclists in Harlow, is full of praise for the Walk-in Centre after he twice went there for treatment following accidents while cycling.

He said: "I found the place very friendly and the staff were very helpful. The Walk-in Centre is convenient and very useful."

Do you know your NHS number?

EVERYONE registered with the NHS in England has their own unique NHS number.

It is printed on your medical card which was given to you when you register with a GP practice.

Each NHS number is made up of ten digits, shown like this: 450 557 7104 (this is an example number only).

If you have an old medical card, it will have an old-style NHS number consisting of letters and numbers. Having the old-style NHS number will not affect your care.

You should know your NHS number as it is useful to give to staff who are caring for you.

To get a new medical card and NHS number, you will need to contact the NHS by ringing NHS West Essex on 01279 827473 or 01279 827519.

Your NHS number is different from your National Insurance (NI) number, which is used for tax and pensions.

LOCAL people can have their say over how health services are provided and discuss health issues with the people who provide them through the Harlow health care forum.

The meetings, which are held quarterly, are also an opportunity for members to become involved in planning local health services.

NHS West Essex's locality director for Harlow, Liz McGranahan, said: "Whatever your age or experience, you can become involved. You don't need any health or social care experience, just be someone with an interest in health-related matters.

"You can be involved as little or as much as you want. It all depends on how much time you can spare."

The next meeting of the Harlow health care forum is in the Griffin Suite at the Latton Bush Centre, Southern Way, Harlow, at 6.30pm on Wednesday 21 January.

To get involved with the forums, ring NHS West Essex on 01279 827243, email mail@westessexpct.nhs.uk or write to the Patient and Public Involvement Team, NHS West Essex, The Laurels, St Margaret's Hospital, The Plain, Epping, CM16 6TN.

NHS West Essex's work and the many different ways staff contribute to high quality patient care.

Awards cover both commissioning and provider staff and include chairman's awards for volunteers and lifetime achievement.

Each winner will receive a trophy and a £100 voucher with the two runners-up getting a certificate and a £50 voucher. Each winner will also have their success recognised on their name badge.

The closing date for nominations is 14 February.

Rethink forced over top-earner pay rises

CONTROVERSIAL proposals to give Harlow Council's senior officers a massive pay hike in the middle of the financial meltdown and the authority's own severe budget crisis have been called in for reconsideration.

The decision to give the Civic Centre's top-earners up to £10,000 extra a year was pushed through by the ruling Tory administration last month.

But now Liberal Democrat members have called for an urgent review of the decision.

The issue is on the agenda for debate at a public meeting of the scrutiny committee tomorrow (Friday), although the proposed huge pay rises will be discussed behind closed doors.

The pay review was pushed through at a special meeting of the policy and resources committee in December, but the Lib Dems argue members were not given enough notice or evidence to fully understand the implications of the recommendations put before them.

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

Lib Dem leader Chris Millington said: "At a time when the Conservatives are cutting welfare rights provision by over half, it is a bit rich for them to be awarding pay rises to senior managers which will cost the council money."

"It's a disgrace that they tried to smuggle this through committee saying it was urgent – even though the award doesn't come into effect until April – and hoping that no-one would notice."

Fellow Lib Dem Lorna Spenceley added: "At a time when services are being cut left and right and the Tories claim the council is in financial meltdown, I find it quite extraordinary that high-earning officers' pay deals require an urgent review."

"Nobody outside of the administration even knew the item was going to be up for discussion at the policy and resources committee and, as a result, members were not given nearly enough time to consider the impact of the pay review on council finances."

Museum prestige for IT antique

AN outdated pathology computer which was at the cutting-edge when it was originally installed at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital has found a new lease of life – as a museum piece!

A decade after it was last switched off, the Ferranti Argus 700 has been given a new lease of life at The National Museum of Computing, in Bletchley Park, Bedfordshire.

It was installed in PAH's pathology department in 1987 to enable electronic reporting on pathology samples such as blood test and swab results, and also acted as the first centralised database for patient notes.

Richard King, chief biomedical scientist and pathology systems manager, recalled: "The arrival of this machine was an exciting time for us. Test results and patient details were all handwritten prior to its introduction, so it meant we were able to improve accuracy and speed up our reporting process dramatically."

Advice service cuts see new clients refused

ADVICE services are turning away new clients as they face the prospect of closure after Harlow Council's ruling Tories axed their funding.

Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice and Harlow Citizen's Advice Bureau, both based in the Advice Centre, in West Square, have one last chance for survival if the scrutiny committee reverse last month's decision when it meets tomorrow (Friday).

But if this last hope fails, all staff employed at the Advice Centre will be left facing the prospect of redundancy.

At present, 863 struggling Harlow families and individuals are being helped by HWRA and staff have promised to try to resolve their cases before the existing funding deal with the council ends on March 31.

However, 180 people currently on its waiting list have been told they will not be helped.

HWRA treasurer Pat Ruder and Harlow CAB chairman the Rev Albert Watson said they were shocked by the cutbacks and urged councillors to reconsider.

"As the credit crunch bites ever harder in our town and the number, complexity and severity of the cases the services are called on to help gets ever larger, the highly professional, confidential independent and, importantly, free advice the services provide has never been more needed," said Ms Ruder.

We hope last weeks advertisement was of interest and some help for those who are becoming confused by the National Media alarmist editorial appearing almost every day, claiming Doom and gloom in the property market.

Like many other local estate agents, I wish they would get their facts right, perhaps speak to us about the real world, what really is happening at the pointed end of the property market, then, maybe they can report facts and not scare mongering rubbish.

Certainly the market here in Harlow is nothing like two years ago and we have seen prices tumble, probably back to 2004 figures but there is green spots of activity out there so be confident, price right and you will find a buyer. Be greedy then no chance! As I said last week, our estimated figures are based on our own records, land registry and rightmove.

Creative way to shed new year blues

TAKE 50 enthusiastic young people of varying age, inspire with music and dance, mix with choreographic invention, bring to the boil over two hard-working winter weeks and present in the Playhouse Studio – the perfect recipe for another Harlow Ballet Association success and the best antidote around for any remaining new year blues.

The New Year Gala 2009 had a highly appreciative audience for a programme of work that was inventive, stylish and always entertaining.

REVIEW

NEW YEAR GALA 2009

Harlow Ballet Association
Playhouse Studio

Razzle-Dazzle provided an appropriately adept Broadway opener with the delightful Little Feet, Little Steps giving opportunities for even the youngest performers to shine. Irresistible added a humorous edge to a tale of romance and in Life Cycle, Paul Tarling complemented the music of Dusted with deft and controlled movement that explored the changing rhythms of life.

Nine entrants made imaginative contributions to the Choreographic Competition and Chloe Gregory, using the gentle rhythms of Colbie Caillat, won first prize for Please Stay – You Make Me Smile. Sophie Hull was second with Twist In My Story, which perfectly matched the emotional intensity of the Secondhand Serenade lyrics.

Rory Prescott, performing as his alter ego Michael Jackson, brought an impressive precision to Billie Jean, and a sense of poise and character was displayed in the highly accomplished dances from La Vivandiere.

Dances from The Nutcracker provided a taster of the association's Easter production and ending the programme was Hayley Burns' beautifully choreographed Snowflake Scene, which filled the stage with wintry drama and provided an appropriately seasonal finale.

Tackling violence with street moves

By CHRIS MOSS

A TALENTED dance troupe from Harlow will deliver an uncompromising message to the town's teenagers this month with a gritty new show highlighting the importance of making sensible life choices.

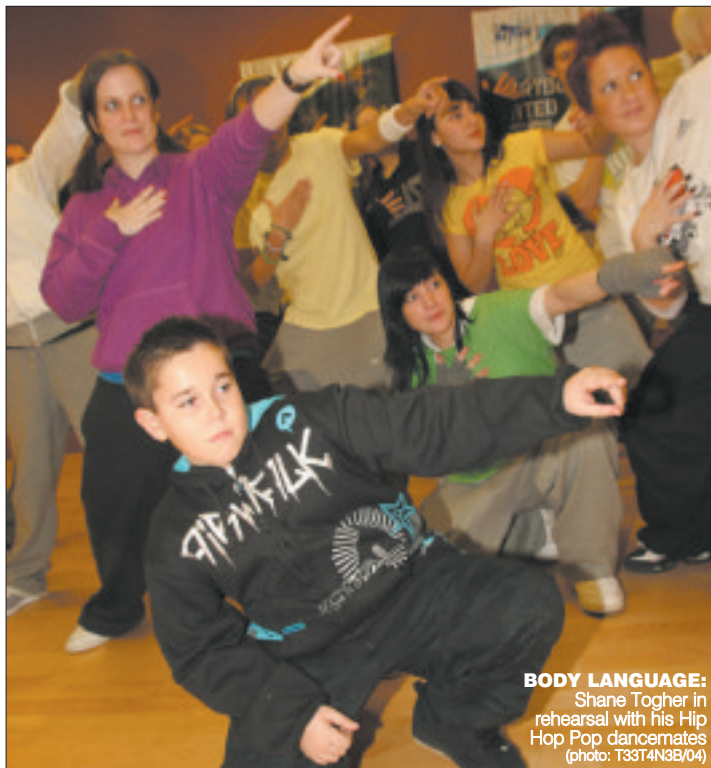

The first of three Hip Hop Pop productions this year at The Playhouse, The Choice Is Yours blends the group's slick dance routines with powerful anti-violence themes in a gripping, thought-provoking production.

Funded by Essex Youth Bank and supported by Essex Police, the show follows a young boy named Leo through his formative years and illustrates how the choices he makes at an early age begin to affect him in later life.

After falling in with the wrong crowd, his secret dream of becoming a dancer hangs in the balance while foolish dalliances with underage drinking, drugs and even gun crime put real pressure on his relationship with the girl he loves.

Will Leo's tale have a happy ending or will he end up bitter, broken and alone?

Writer, producer and choreographer Jenny Bater said: "I'm very excited – this show is not only packed with strong street routines but has a real purpose in its story. "We have used a few shock tactics to deliver important messages to the teenage spectators, and we hope that audiences of all ages leave the theatre not only having enjoyed the performance as a whole but asking themselves questions about the choices they make."

The Choice Is Yours runs from January 30-31 and tickets are £10 (£6 concs) from (01279) 431945. Due to strong content, those under 13 are advised not to attend.

ART Braille and clay works by visually impaired artists from Harlow will be on display at St John's Arts & Recreation Centre, off Market Street, Old Harlow, from tomorrow (Friday). The brainchild of local artist and designer Philip Melling, the free Art-Braille show runs until January 30.

acclaimed Belgian surrealist Dominique Lambrecht and artist-in-residence Sue McDonald. Their imaginations take them to a world where the mysterious, unlikely and extraordinary are commonplace. The free Visions Beyond exhibition runs until February 15.

MUSIC The internationally famed Cropper/Welsh/Roscoe Piano Trio launches The Playhouse's Music In The Round season on Sunday at 3pm. The trio will perform pieces by Haydn, Beethoven and Schubert. Tickets are £12 from (01279) 431945.

FILM The Playhouse screens powerful Holocaust drama The Boy In The Striped Pyjamas on Tuesday. Based on the novel by John Boyne, the film centres on a friendship between the son of a high-ranking Nazi officer and a young prisoner in the concentration camp run by his father. Screenings are at 11am, 2pm and 7.45pm and tickets are £5 (£4 concs) from (01279) 431945.

Good Will's hunting for redemption in earnest

BREAKER POINT: Will Smith contemplates the meaning of it all in SEVEN POUNDS (s)

THIS meditation on life and death reunites star Will Smith with director Gabriele Muccino and boasts a hush-hush final reel revelation, but it's mostly a monumental tease.

The twist, which brings clarity to the intentionally fractured narrative, is blindingly obvious from the pedestrian first 15 minutes.

So obvious, in fact, that you'll spend the rest of Seven Pounds convinced that first-time screenwriter Grant Nieporte must have an ace up his sleeve to justify all of the subterfuge and ambiguity.

Sadly, what you see is what you get in this certificate 12A, running time 2h 5m emotionally manipulative film, and what you get is a terribly earnest tale of self-sacrifice and redemption which pins a makeshift halo to Smith, casting him as a broken man with a secret who seeks absolution in the most ridiculous way imaginable.

"In seven days, God created the world. In seven seconds, I shattered mine," narrates IRS tax collector Ben Thomas (Smith) in voiceover, shortly after we see him dial 911 to report his own suicide.

In flashback, we watch him track down seven strangers whose fates are somehow connected to his own, including Emily Posa (Rosario Dawson), a single woman with a serious heart condition, blind pianist Ezra Turner (Woody Harrelson) who works in telephone sales, physically abused Hispanic wife Connie Tepos (Elpidia Carrillo), and generous hockey coach George Ristuccia (Bill Smitrovich).

Some of the chosen ones, like overworked doctor Stewart Goodman (Tim Kelleher), turn out to be bad eggs and are hastily discarded.

As he worms his way into these people's lives, Ben conceals a curious truth: that the strangers all have roles to play in a grander endeavour.

However, a burgeoning romance with Emily and a series of urgent telephone messages from his brother threaten to distract him from his goal.

MY BLOODY VALENTINE 3D

certificate 18, running time 1h 41m

PATRICK Lussier's gore-laden remake of the 1981 Canadian slasher flick about a pickaxe-wielding killer with a penchant for hearts doesn't skimp on the fake blood.

More than a decade after a mining accident left five men trapped, until one killed the others for the oxygen, the otherwise quiet town of Harmony finds itself in the grip of a series of copycat killings.

My Bloody Valentine 3D keeps its killer's identity concealed until the end but the most obvious suspect turns out to be the guilty party, thanks to some cheating on the part of the scriptwriters.

Limbs and appendages fly through the air in 3D, causing the audience to duck for cover or take a whirling pickaxe square in the face; sick and twisted fun for a Friday night, but hardly edifying.

BEVERLY HILLS CHIHUAHUA

certificate U, running time 1h 31m

EVERY dog has its day and for the diamond-encrusted pooch at the centre of this perky comedy, every day is filled with designer booties and distilled water.

But what happens when a ridiculously pampered canine is stranded far from home at the mercy of the elements?

Beverly Hills Chihuahua collars some decent laughs as it spins a predictable dog-out-of-water yarn, augmented with slick visual effects which allow the lovable, four-legged protagonists to talk to each other.

THE READER

certificate 15, running time 2h 3m

THE collective guilt of Germany's 'second generation', struggling to come to terms with their parents' role in the Holocaust, underscores every elegant frame of The Reader.

At the blackened heart of the picture is a tour de force performance from Kate Winslet as a woman accused of heinous crimes during her stint as an SS guard.

As a young man in 1958 Neustadt, Michael (Ralph Fiennes) falls dangerously ill and is assisted by passing stranger Hanna Schmidt (Winslet). The pair embark on a passionate affair, but when they meet eight years later, she's standing trial for her crimes.

sound check with chris moss

AS much as Sound Check loves to put on its rose-tinted specs and get all nostalgic about Harlow's rich musical heritage, it's an unfortunate reality that the sell-out Town Park concerts of old are now little more than fond memories for music-lovers of a certain vintage.

But while the near-legendary bandstand quietly crumbles under the proud weight of its own glorious past, it's most edifying to see another glowing highlight of the town's musical past, the mighty rock contest, being granted a timely renaissance.

Thanks to those lovely chaps at The Square, the imaginatively titled Rock Contest 2009 is now in full swing and thundering into its second heat.

With a top prize of $750 worth of studio time at the Fourth Avenue venue, thousands of bands (well, 24 actually) will compete against one another to be crowned the cream of the 2009 crop.

Last week saw garage rock scamps Great Scott – much-lauded in this very column – win over an opinionated audience, while the brilliantly monikered Ubaldo Esteban proved that hanging around in graveyards like some mournful Argentinean hairdresser need not affect your propensity to rock by snatching the judges' vote.

Unfortunately, in common with all fiercely contested battles, there are inevitably casualties and the first band to have the wind taken out of their sails was fiery rock 'n' roll four-piece Gravity.

Hoping to fare better tonight (Thursday) and secure a place in round two are funk-rockers Peg, chirpy indie popsters The Scandals and acoustic punkers Torn Out – if you want your voice to be heard or simply want to exchange votes for pints, I suggest you get down to The Square pronto.

FRIDAY

Rebel Truce, pictured right, formed in 1997 with one mission: to recreate the experience of one of the greatest punk rock bands of all time – The Clash – live on stage. With a huge repertoire of about 50 songs ranging from the incendiary blast of 1977 to the assured swagger of London Calling and the pop sensibilities of Should I Stay Or Should I Go, Rebel Truce are a must see not only for fans of the Clash, but for all lovers of live DEFIANCE As Hitler's army marches through Belarussia, three Jewish brothers escape the onslaught to lead hundreds of survivors into the dense forests. While Tuvia Bielski and his gentle, youngest sibling Asael establish an ever-expanding community beneath the tree canopy, fiery-tempered middle son Zus refuses to stand by as his people are wiped out. He abandons the refuge with men in tow and aligns himself with the charismatic commander of a group determined to strike at the heart of the Nazi machine.

ROLE MODELS The latest foul-mouthed bro-mantic comedy cast in the Judd Apatow mould (Superbad, Step Brothers, Pineapple Express) is a genuinely funny escapade that milks every guffaw from its predictable fish-out-of-water scenario. Role Models doesn't deviate once from a well-trodden path of breast gags, wanton stupidity and hard fought redemption but David Wain's film has an undeniable charm and some terrific one-liners as it extols the virtues of fraternal love.

BRIDE WARS One of those films that you know you're either going to love or hate just from the title alone - and this is strictly a chick flick, unless the thought of Kate Hudson and Anne Hathaway fighting in the aisle appeals. Even then, women could well be affronted by the rather stereotyped versions of brides-to-be presented to them.

YES MAN A Jim Carrey comedy about what would happen if someone said 'yes' to everything they would have been previously dismissed with a cursory 'no'.

BEDTIME STORIES Adam Sandler tries to cash in on tales that come true.

MADAGASCAR: ESCAPE 2 AFRICA The New York Zoo escapees head for their homeland.

CITY OF EMBER A subterranean city faces a crisis when it begins to run out of generating power.

THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK
(Contender Home Entertainment, PG, retail)

Anne Frank's diary is reputedly the world's most widely read work of non-fiction and in adapting it there's often been a tendency, understandably, to transform her into a cipher for Jewish suffering during the Second World War.

The young girl hiding out from the Germans in a cramped annexe can often seem more a two-dimensional martyr than a frustrated, frightened teenager, so it's to the credit of writer Deborah Moggach - who, for the first time, was given permission to use Anne's own words as well as access to portions of the diary previously excised by the family - that this excellent new five-part BBC production presents her a warmer, more fully rounded, real character.

Ellie Kendrick is simply amazing as Anne, striking just the right balance of petulance, precocity, uncertainty, romance and fear as the 13-year-old, her family and others go into hiding above her father's Amsterdam spice warehouse following the occupation of Holland.

For two years, Anne documented the shortages, cramped conditions and terror of discovery, along with her most private musings, hopes and thoughts of boys, although this adaptation elaborates on the latter in a way the diary itself did not.

Able supporting Kendricks is a first-rate cast, including Iain Glen and Tamsin Greig very credible as Anne's parents Otto and Edith, Felicity Jones as sister Margot, Leslie Sharp excellent as the shrill Petronella Van Daan and Kate Ashfield quietly understated Miep Gies, the woman who runs the risk of providing supplies for the concealed group.

Extras on this disc include an interview with Anne Frank's cousin, Buddy Elias.

BABYLON A.D.
(20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 15, retail & rental)

Sometimes, negative advance word can end up working in a movie's favour - and few in recent years have met with such an up-front mauling as this slice of dystopian sci-fi action starring Vin Diesel.

Oddly, director Mathieu (La Haine, Crimson Rivers and, erm, Gothika) Kassovitz turned out to be its strongest critic, claiming in interviews prior to release that the studio interfered all the way through shooting, to the extent of even dictating how he mounted certain scenes.

When he was done, Fox took it away to lop an hour from the 161-minute running time (a version Kassovitz dismissed as "like a bad episode of 24") and then rolled it out with no previews for critics (never a good sign) and little fanfare.

Yet approaching Babylon A.D. with battered expectations turns out to be a good thing; it's certainly no Blade Runner or Children Of Men, but it's never dull and only at the climax are its running themes and ideas swamped by silliness.

In a near-future world slipping into entropic chaos, Diesel (doing his rasping anti-hero thing) is mercenary Toorop, contracted by a Russian mobster (an almost-unrecognisable Gerard Depardieu) to escort a 'package' through the feral wastelands of Eastern Europe to New York.

The consignment turns out to be the unworly young woman Aurora (Melanie Thierry), raised in an isolated convent and accompanied by martial arts expert and nun Sister Rebeka (Hong Kong movie star Michelle Yeoh).

It seems everybody's interested in the mysterious Aurora, from the gun-for-hire goons who keep popping up to a creepy fledgling religion (led by Charlotte Rampling in evil stepmother mode); even more so once she begins to exhibit seemingly paranormal abilities under stress.

Remaining largely faithful to the cyberpunk ethos which spawned it, Babylon A.D. is a sometimes confusing, sprawling collision of ideas, conspiracy and paranoia which takes the time to pepper its environments with credible touches such as street butchers peddling what looks like rabbit or cat carcasses, New York's skyscrapers overlaid with projected advertisements and chemical passports.

It doesn't let the action sequences (which are very good) overwhelm the story and, once in a while, throws up moments suggesting the different kind of film Kassovitz might have had in mind - there's a genuine frisson of horror at the spectacle of a submarine ferrying illegal immigrants to Canada slipping beneath the icy black waters with dozens of desperate refugees still clinging to it.

Unfortunately, it all spins out of control at the end, throwing in virgin births, genetic manipulation and the casual reanimation of the dead like so much frantic confetti.

Not the return to Pitch Black form fans might have been hoping for from Diesel, but certainly an improvement over xXx and The Pacifier.

Extras include the featurettes Babylon Babies, Arctic Escape, Weapons Gallery and Prequel To Babylon.

TALES OF THE FOURTH DIMENSION
(Ghost Films, 12, retail)

Five short stories riffing on the theme of time are linked by Rocky Horror Show creator Richard O'Brien in this mostly entertaining low-budget portmanteau. Modest production values are bolstered by decent writing and ideas, sometimes a little patchy and often hinging on an amusing twist in the tale.

It starts out strongly with Ghostwriters, in which the Voyager space probe encounters a wormhole with the result that the complete works of Shakespeare (implausibly in book form) are catapulted back through time to land in the garden of a certain struggling Elizabethan playwright who's having no success selling his own books. Deciding to pass off his own as-yet-unwritten plays as, well, his own, he buries his inferior earlier work ... little suspecting who might one day dig it up.

The Big Time visits a mechanic in 1960s Liverpool who almost becomes a Beatle, Leonardo's Vision explains the origins of Da Vinci's famous Vitruvian Man with the unwitting aid of two paranormal investigators, who also crop up again in the broader comedy of The Witching Hour, while The Last Chance Saloon rounds things off nicely in Groundhog Day territory.

THE WORLD'S MOST ATTRACTIVE TAX HAVEN.

BRAND NEW FIAT 500 FROM ONLY £8100

UNDER £146 PER MONTH 9.9% APR (TYPICAL)

SAVE A BUNDLE BY PAYING LESS TAX

You don't need non-resident bank accounts and a year-round tan to reap the benefits of a tax haven. Fiat cars have the lowest CO2 emissions in Europe*, meaning certain Fiat 500's currently fall in low VED tax bands, saving you a bundle. So with annual road tax as low as just £35, coupled with classic Italian styling, these are just too attractive to ignore.

Boss keen to keep up good run

The likes of midfielder Sam Berry, strikers John Frenedo and Chris Ellerbeck did not play against Heybridge Swifts but they were due to play for the Hawks' reserve team against Enfield Town reserves in the Capital League eastern division last night.

Alzapiedi was hoping they came through unscathed and 90 minutes of action together with a light training session tonight should ensure they are ready.

Left-back Michael Bardle will return from a two-game suspension for the Maidstone clash after his red card against AFC Hornchurch.

Former Bishop's Stortford utility player Luke Webster joined prior to Christmas and could figure in the squad for the Hastings game after making his debut at right-back against Heybridge.

"He played well and linked well with the players around him," said Alzapiedi.

That's Dee way Hawks like it!

Harlow Tn 3, Heybridge Swifts 2 (aet)
(Isthmian League Cup, third round)

By DAVID RIMMER
rimmerd@hertssexnews.co.uk

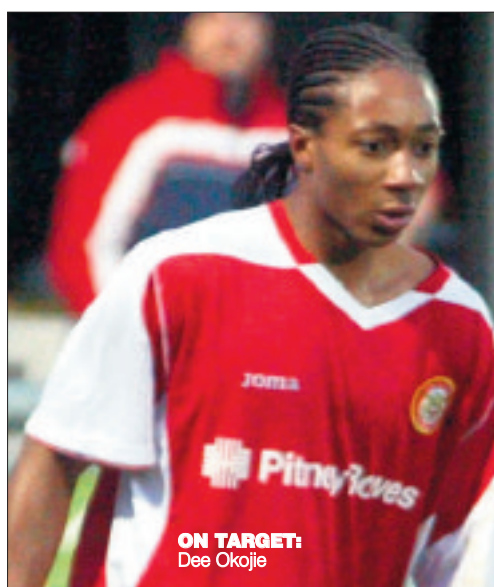

IT was ever so late before Dee Okojie fired the Hawks into the fourth round of the Isthmian League Cup.

The score was 2-2 in Tuesday's third-round tie at Barrows Farm and penalties loomed before the ex-Bishop's Stortford winger tapped in from Shaun Gliddon's cross on 118 minutes.

Great credit must go to Gliddon, whose darting run in the box had seen him beat two Heybridge Swifts defenders before delivering the killer cross.

Hawks boss Glen Alzapiedi could only name a 14-man squad due to suspensions which ruled out midfielder Leon Lalite and defenders Mark Taylor and Michael Bardle. Chris Ellerbeck, John Frenedo, Sam Berry and Paul Burton were all cup tied.

Former Stortford utility player Luke Webster made a debut at right-back and Tom Bruno partnered Danny

ON TARGET:
Dee Okojie

Gudgeon in the centre of mid-field.

The match was marked by seven bookings mostly as a result of mistimed challenges with Hawks players Gudgeon, Laurie Stewart and Gliddon being cautioned.

A lively yet goalless first half saw Gary Hill fire a shot against a Harlow post on two minutes and Hawks keeper James Hasell tipped a fierce Danny Rochester shot away.

At the other end, the tireless Bruno scooped a shot just wide on 18 minutes and on 33 minutes a Danny Green snap shot forced visitors' keeper Ollie Morris-Sanders to tip over.

Heybridge went ahead on 64 minutes. Reece Morgan was set free and his shot deflected in off the advancing Hasell.

The hosts equalised on 70 minutes when Okojie scored his first Harlow goal since switching from Stortford.

He collected the ball from a sloppy Morris-Sanders goal kick and ran forward before his low 20-yard shot beat the Heybridge stopper.

The Hawks went ahead on 86 minutes when the lively Okojie teed up Green and his deflected shot flew into the net.

However, Swifts grabbed an equaliser in injury-time when Ben Codling's shot took a wicked deflection and the ball tricked into the home net.

Codling fired wastefully wide in the first minute of extra-time with just Hasell to beat and Morris-Sanders later produced outstanding saves to deny Bruno and Stewart.

However, the ubiquitous Okojie then settled it.

Alzapiedi said: "We kept going and we kept the quality of our football going. Some teams in extra time just pump the ball into the box but we kept passing it."

HARLOW Tn: Hasell 7, Webster 7, S. Gliddon 6, Stewart 6, Kear 7, Bruno 7, Gudgeon 7, Green 6 (Llewellyn 90), Richards (Hill 89), Sylvester 5 (Charles 68 6), Okojie 8.

Boss eyes central defender signing

SAWBRIDGEWORTH Town boss Peter Wickham hopes to boost his squad by signing a central defender before their weekend clash at Mauritius Sports.

Wickham was tight-lipped over the name of the player who plays at the same level of the Non-League pyramid as the Robins.

The new Sawbo boss was moved to improve his defence after it let in five goals against Stansted 12 days ago.

Midfielder Paul Baker is likely to have a place on the bench for the Mauritius game as he continues his comeback following the bad ankle injury he sustained against London APSA in October.

Wickham said: "Paul trained last week and we will see how he does this week in training. We are looking for him to be on the bench."

Defender Mark Pearcey is back from holiday while right-back Phil Bulled should be in the squad after recovering from a back injury.

Sawbridgeworth's scheduled home game against Barkingside on Saturday was postponed because of the icy conditions.

Clubs frozen out

FIXTURE pile-ups loom for the Footprint Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League as the harsh weather continues to take its toll on the football season.

Only one match was played on Saturday. It was the third week running that the cold weather has badly hit the League.

In the game that took place, Sheering reserves won a five-goal thriller at Harlow-based Frontiers in the second round of the Division One Cup.

Szavi Czinkon struck twice for the hosts.

However, Sheering progressed to the third round. Scorers included Daniel Brett and Carl Owen.

Gr-eight day for Lyon

ROUGE Lyon reached the fourth round of the Essex Senior Cup with a comprehensive 8-2 home victory over Greengate on Sunday.

In the Harlow & District League's Division Two Cup, Risden Wood A, Brookside Athletic and Matching United moved into the semi-finals.

Risden won 3-0 at home to A & A, while Matching defeated Dynamo 3-2 away.

Brookside won 7-4 at Eastwick Lions.

From pest control to Olympic prospect

JAMES Huckle, right, has London 2012 in mind as he competes in Sydney at the Australian Youth Olympic Festival this week.

The 18-year-old from Old Harlow has been earmarked by British Shooting as a future Olympic medallist.

Last year he won three gold medals at the Commonwealth Youth Games, having only taken up the sport because his father's farm had a vermin problem.

"It's strange in a way that I've ended up in the sport because both my parents are pretty much what you could call anti-weapons," he said.

"But Dad bought this air rifle because we had two-and-a-half acres of land and there was a rat problem.

"I was always fascinated by the idea that you could press a trigger at one end of the gun and direct such enormous power out of the other end."

At 16, Huckle saved up to buy his first competitive rifle and then a chance encounter on his first visit to the GB training venue at Bisley saw him poached for Olympic competition.

"I'd been nagging my mum to take me to Bisley for ages," Huckle recalls.

"By chance the British junior development squad were training there and I got invited to a weekend practice. So it was quite a quick progression."

Huckle insists that shooting is a young person's sport, demanding a huge level of physical stamina and durability.

"You have to be as physically fit as an athlete in any other sport. If you ask people to hold up a rifle, weighing between 8-12kg, for three-and-a-half hours, which is what shooters do in competition, they would almost certainly not be able to do it," he said.

"They'd be begging to move within half an hour. I spend three hours a day, four days a week working out at my local gym on improving my core stability - that's all the muscles around your stomach and lower back."

Mental strength is also vital for success. "There's a lot that runs through your mind when you're a rifle-shooter. You have to focus really hard," said Huckle.

"But you also let it happen naturally because you can't think too much about what you're doing - it has to flow and just happen."

Supremely confident, Huckle is determined to earn a place on the podium at the London Olympics.

"My main goal is the Olympics in 2012," he said. "I will definitely medal in that but for now I just want to get up there and hit that target, do what I do every day in training and concentrate on improving as much as I can."

Marleen maintains top form

MARLEEN Avontuur maintained her strong winter form when she came sixth out of 36 runners at the Essex Cross Country Championships at Basildon.

The Harlow Athletic Club youngster settled into Saturday's U-13 race in sixth position, behind predominantly Basildon athletes and highly-rated youngster Sophie Riches (Chelmsford AC).

She maintained this position throughout the hills and battled hard to try and gain a higher position in the sprint to the finish line.

Marleen completed the 3km course in 13 mins 49 secs, only two seconds behind the fifth place runner.

Marleen had already been selected to run for Essex in the South of England Inter-Counties Cross Country Championships on Saturday January 31.

Her coach at Harlow AC, Ted Cole, said: "It's an honour to wear the red vest of Essex. It is extremely hard to get selected in your first season and Marleen has worked hard for it."

Club colleague and Passmores School student Isobel Moss finished strongly in a sprint finish to come 27th at Basildon in 15:50.

Isobel's school-mate Joanna Cywinski, who represented her club Woodford Green and Essex Ladies, came 24th in 14:29.

Icy ground and freezing temperatures marked the race which is well known for its fast paced starts over flat terrain and a hard finish across brutal hills, making it extremely challenging.

Running club third in cross country series

HARLOW Running Club finished third overall in the Hertfordshire Sunday Cross Country League.

The team sent 23 runners to the fourth and final stage at Newport Free Grammar School near Saffron Walden on Sunday.

Justin Revell was sixth overall as the men finished third from four teams.

The club's women were led home by Dionne Jones in 11th. They were last.

Ware Joggers swept the honours board, triumphing in all three categories to win the event overall.

The 4½-mile course proved a challenge to the 125+ runners, with slightly warmer conditions than previous weeks' races resulting in soft and muddy conditions underfoot.

The course was mainly across flat fields, but featured a cold stream crossing before a long ascent to the west of the motorway.

After a fast downhill section there was a short but steep incline before runners had to cross the fields back to the school – a slog in soft conditions.

Final team positions 1. Ware 16pts; 2. Saffron Striders 11; 3. Harlow 7; 4. Bishop's Stortford 6.

Other Harlow Running Club results:- men – Alan Broughton (7th); Steve Mackenzie (12th); Roy Steven (18th); Alan Wise (21st); John Evans (25th); David Ayling (29th); Pasquale Pellechia (39th); John Bull (42nd); Paul Bailey (55th); Martin McColgan (63rd); Graham Pugh (64th); Ron Newton (78th); Matt Jones (81st).

Women – Katie Herrington (15th); Linda Selby (28th); Gina Bailey (30th); Joanne Chung (35th); Alison Bull (36th); Susan Dewar (50th); Faye Strand (51st).

Colchester put the freeze on Ladies

COLCHESTER put the freeze quite literally on Harlow Ladies as the second half of the team's Essex Hockey League premier division campaign began with a 4-1 reverse.

With temperatures reaching -4C Harlow were slow off the mark and went behind in the first five minutes as keeper Nicky Newland was left unsighted to a shot.

Stung, Harlow's pressure was rewarded with an equaliser as Anna Ferdinando took advantage of a rebound following a close-range shot from Emma Tweddle.

Colchester regained the lead when their captain entered the game and with her first touches dribbled through the Harlow defence to finish from close range.

Brave defending from Anita Shearman, including one timely interception to save a certain goal, kept Harlow in the match.

After the break, Babsie Steenekamp made a series of foraging runs on the right wing but was unable to net.

Alex Figg and Holly Reilly, promoted from the second team, worked hard down the flanks but Colchester increased their lead after some crisp passing.

An injury to Carolyn Rushton weakened Harlow's attacks before Colchester grabbed a fourth from a short corner late on.

HARLOW LADIES: Newland, Jo Green, Shearman, Hansson, Rushton, Tweddle, Figg, Reilly, Steenekamp, Amos, Ferdinando.

Stadium manager aims to make Harlow top dog venue

WITH 26 years' experience as race manager at the historic Walthamstow Greyhound Stadium, new Harlow supremo Chris Page certainly knows a thing or two about the sport.

Headhunted by Dave Barclay who bought the Pinnacles track for £2m in 2005, 51-year-old Page is relishing his new role as general manager.

And there has already been a rise in the numbers of race fans at the track which opened in 1995.

Greyhound national champion trainer Mark Wallace has even switched to the Essex venue. He was one of five trainers lured from the 'Stow by Page, who began work at the East London circuit in the early 1980s.

"Now, you will never see a Sky

By ALAN SCOTT

Sports [greyhounds] programme without a Harlow dog in it."

"Most dog tracks are in decline but in November we were the only track in the country where the attendance went up. There are a number of Walthamstow people here. They are diehards. They love dog racing and are coming to Harlow," Page said.

The 300-seater stadium is home to a restaurant, two bars, a function room, private boxes, poker and darts facilities and even an internet café.

Recently the stadium introduced a £90,000 state-of-the-art Tote system, essential for professional tracks and last week Harlow secured £180,000 from the governing body, the Greyhound Board of Great Britain, to carry out more improvement work.

Page said: "We are hoping to extend and enlarge the track."

Harlow is now home to 25 trainers and holds meetings three times a week – Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Fans can also watch racing at Harlow on the internet – and have a bet!

Page hopes to attract more than 500 punters to race nights on Fridays and Saturdays.

"We hope to get the top dogs. We will only get these dogs if we can offer big prize money," Page explained.

Fans will have been saddened by the closure of Walthamstow and Page remembers fondly the night in the mid-1980s when the Red Rum of greyhound racing Scurlogue Champ was watched by more than 8,500.

With the next nearest tracks as far as Romford and Wimbledon, Harlow simply must seize this opportunity to go to the next level. "People still think of it as men in cloth caps and grey coats. The beauty here is we are so reasonably priced," Page said.

Barclay, 46, is determined to make Harlow synonymous with top-quality greyhound racing.

"When I left Walthamstow I did not need to work again. I could have sat back and retired but I met Dave [Barclay] and he fired my enthusiasm again," beamed Page.

Squad players key as side go top

THE strength in depth of Harlow Hawks came to the fore as they completed two Herts County Basketball League victories in three days.

Hawks fielded four second team players when they won a tight game 66-62 over-time at Circus Houghton Raiders on Sunday which put them top of the division one table.

This came two days after their home 95-79 victory over Enfield Mercs.

Hawks went 6-0 behind against Raiders but two three pointers from Lee Jones settled the away side.

The visitors were 16-13 ahead at the start of the second quarter after scores from promoted second team stars Michael Beet and Rimas Norkelinunas.

Hawks led 33-28 at the halfway point.

Raiders enjoyed a 13-0 run in the middle of the third quarter and it needed three three-pointers from Amit Sharma to enable the Hawks to draw level (50-50) before the match's fourth quarter.

Harlow were losing towards the end but a Sharma score took the match into over-time.

Hawks then made their possession count with Sharma getting four more points in response to two from the Raiders.

Paul Jessop then scored to complete a 23-point haul as Hawks held on to win.

Harlow coach Shab Niaz said: "It was an extremely below-par performance by us but considering the circumstances we got out of jail. Credit goes to the guys from the second team that stepped up."

On Friday, good play from Nick Moss ensured they had a one-point lead (27-26) at the end of the first quarter.

Russ Allan and Mike Freeman gave Harlow a strong start to the second quarter.

Good play from Moss and Jessop at the end ensured the Hawks had a five-point lead (48-43) at the halfway point.

The Hawks enjoyed a 10-2 run at the start of the third quarter and although Mercs rallied, scores by Mark Haddow, Jessop and Moss gave them a 73-57 lead at the start of the last quarter.

Jessop top scored with 30 points in this match.

Leaders Admiral win title crunch match

WHITE Admiral overcame Servo Hawks 5-4 in a thrilling top-of-the-table encounter in the Harlow & District Premier Darts League.

The leaders triumphed with the help of a 111 finish from Mal Copas.

Not to be outdone, Hawks star man Billy Nelmes struck an excellent 180 maximum.

Young Pretenders pipped TG Whites 5-4 and the teams now share joint third place in the table.

Stow Snooker are now one point behind those two teams after their 7-2 win at Golden Swift. Stow's Eli Leftwich helped himself to a 180 and Ronnie Yates enjoyed a 110 out-shot. UG Social went down 5-4 on their trip to Moot House.

FC Wonders are still without a league win this season. They went down 2-7 at home to CC Foxes.

Elsewhere CC Colts lost 2-7 at home to Moot House Arrows.

Kathrine the great seals treble success

KATHRINE Foy retained her South Of England Championships crown over 800 metres on Sunday.

Competing at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre in North London, the Epping teenager ran an excellent time of 2 mins, 17.6 secs to win the junior women's title. It was the third year running the Levethorpe School student had won this race.

North Weald's Jessica Docking placed 6th in the U-20 women's Essex Cross Country Championships at Basildon, Essex, on Saturday.

This virtually guaranteed selection to represent Essex in the CAU Inter Counties Championship at Nottingham on March 7.

This race will be televised on Sky.

Jessica's time was 22mins, 09secs over the 5km course.

Morgan continued: "The club needs to progress on and off the field. Obviously it was a spanner in the works with Ryan going. It did not work out.

"Glen is a qualified coach. We have no doubt next season we want to be pushing for the play-offs."

In recent weeks Kirby, James Bunn, Danny Chapman and Beckett Hollenbach have left the club while Alzapiedi has brought in Lawrie Stewart, Sam Berry, John Frendo, Chris Ellerbeck, Paul Burton, Michael Bardle and Danny Gudgeon.

"A big part of the squad has split up. The new guys have come in. They have got to gel. It is early days but they are getting to know each other," Morgan added.

Harlow's home match against Maidstone in the Ryman premier division on Saturday was called off due to a frozen pitch, as were all of the games in the Ryman League.

Hawks are on the up

SIMON Morgan, the Hawks chairman, has backed new boss Glen Alzapiedi to save the club from relegation this year – and expects a promotion charge next season.

The 43-year-old Harlow Town chairman says Alzapiedi is the man to take the Barrows Farm side onwards and upwards.

Alzapiedi has signed seven players from his old club Ware, while three players have either quit the club or been moved on following the departure of player-boss Ryan Kirby.

Football can be a harsh business and giving someone the boot was obviously at the bottom of Morgan's agenda when he replaced Steve Ray as club chairman in the summer. But Morgan knows he made a crucial decision at the right time. "Confidence is high now. The new players are getting to know us," he said.

"I talk to Glen most days. He is very confident. He knows what he is doing. Just talking to Glen you know he knows about football. I am not saying Ryan [Kirby] did not but Glen knows what players he wants.

"We are confident he can keep us in the premier division. That is our aim primarily.

"Glen feels we will finish in mid-table. I will be happy with that and the FA Cup run. It will have been a successful season.

"Our aim next season is a play-off spot. Glen wants to go for promotion. If the structure in the club is right we will be behind him 100 per cent."

A taste of the Orient?

Speculation mounts that League One club could relocate to Harlow

By ALAN SCOTT
Sports Editor
scotta@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HAWKS chairman Simon Morgan and Harlow MP Bill Rammell have condemned speculation linking Leyton Orient FC with a shock move to Harlow.

Radio and news media have picked up on the rumours indicating a bold switch to Essex for the struggling League One club.

Harlow has been identified as a prime location due to its proximity with much of Orient's fan base and excellent road and rail links to the capital.

But MP Rammell, a vice-president at Harlow Town FC, believes any relocation would be unworkable. "As a passionate football fan, I believe football clubs are about the communities they are rooted in. Leytonstone is not Harlow.

"I would need a lot of persuading that it would be sensible or desirable for Orient to move to Harlow.

"We also have a thriving football club of our own, which

with my support has through the Government's Gateway development got a great new stadium."

He added: "It is also not at all clear to me where Orient would move to in Harlow."

The O's have been hit by a big dip in attendances and it has been reported that a relocation to a site out of London could be on the cards to preserve the long-term survival of a club once home to famous names such as England winger Lawrie Cunningham.

Much of the O's support is believed to be from the Harlow, Epping and Brentwood areas, even stretching up as far as Bishop's Stortford.

Hawks chairman Morgan told Star Sport that Harlow Town's ground at Barrows Farm simply could not cater for Orient, whose average attendances have dropped to below 4,800.

"Our stadium would not be suitable for a Football League club," said Morgan. "It's pure speculation. The roads would not be able to take it."

A site close to the M11 motorway might be the only possible destination for Orient, but planning permission could prove difficult for the club, owned by entrepreneur Barry Hearn.

Orient's size and stature would appear to rule out a ground share with Harlow Town FC. The capacity at Barrows Farm is 3,000. "Parking would be a major problem," added Morgan.

Orient have played at Brisbane Road for 70 years but are struggling to attract new fans.

Few E10 residents follow the club which is struggling in the bottom six this season. Crowds are down 500 from the 2007-08 season.

However, Harlow Council welcomed any bid from Leyton Orient to move to the town.

A council spokesman said: "Harlow is a fantastic location that would be great for any club or business wanting easy access to London and the surrounding area.

"We would be delighted if Leyton Orient wanted to move here, provided we were confident it would not harm the local community or Harlow's existing football team, Harlow Town FC."

Leyton Orient FC spokesman Leo Pyrie said: "The club is not making any comment on this story at the moment."

Boss keen to keep up good run

GLEN Alzapiedi, left, is determined to carry on the positive start he has made with Harlow Town when they visit Hastings United in the Ryman League premier division this Saturday.

The Hawks have won both their games under their new boss after their narrow extra-time win over Heybridge Swifts in the Isthmian League Cup on Tuesday.

Hastings (16th) are only four points ahead of Harlow (18th) and rather than look at it as a six-pointer, Alzapiedi said: "I just see it as a game we can go into it believing we can get a positive result from.

"We are going there with the intention of winning."

Harlow then host Maidstone United in a rearranged game on Tuesday. The original game last Saturday was postponed because of a frozen pitch.

Harlow have not played in the league since their 4-1 victory over AFC Hornchurch on December 27.
